

As a Flight Attendant, my job is difficult and dangerous enough. We do not need the ability to talk on cell phones during flight when the planes are already equipped with onboard phones for customer use. I would rather see a tightening on the current rules rather than have the rules relaxed.

Furthermore, I wouldn't expect to come to your office and carry on a cell phone conversation while you're trying to talk with me or get my attention. The plane is my office and doing so is disrespectful!

Lisa J. Robinson
Certified Professional Flight Attendant